Improve Your Transcription Skills

Help us transcribe the millions of digitized pages of records in the National Archives Catalog. Transcription helps us improve search results and increase accessibility to our historical records.

New to transcribing? Our newly designed Transcription Tips webpage shows you how to get started with transcription, and includes some helpful examples of documents so you can see transcription in action.

Teachers can download and print a PDF version for use in their classrooms.

By transcribing, you are helping unlock history and discover hidden details of records and the stories they contain.

Check out our transcription missions! We've curated groups of records on particular subjects to help you get started transcribing. Take a look at our missions page to start transcribing documents related to exploring space, African American history, and more! If this is your first time participating - read the Transcription Tips and begin with the getting started instructions.

Happy transcribing!
